Thanks!

I defer to your knowledge of the practicalities of polling arrangements, however there is no concerns now about the A90. There is an underpass which links Hillside with Portlethen. It was built a couple of years ago as part of the planning consent for Hillside. It is a vehicle and pedestrian underpass so there are absolutely no safety concerns whatsoever.

At this time there is no venue in Hillside.

There's a car sales outlet and two or three industrial units and a council roads depot. Does the later have office space? I don't know.

I hope this is helpful.
