Morrison Construction

Queensferry Crossing

During October 2014, Miller Construction was acquired by Galliford Try. The project team at the Alford Campus site remains as before, but the project is now being delivered by Morrison Construction.

With regional offices in Aberdeen and Inverness, Morrison Construction is one of the nation's leading construction businesses, delivering more than £1 billion of public and private sector projects throughout Scotland in the last five years.

The acquisition has brought together two construction businesses with a strong strategic fit.

Part of the Galliford Try group and with an award-winning portfolio, Morrison Construction undertakes a range of activities from the construction of multi-million pound building and civil engineering projects (incl. Queensferry Crossing) to small works and repairs and maintenance.

Safety Lighting

For safety reasons, we have installed some additional temporary lighting units on the top of our site office & welfare block.

We were notified that the bright light was causing overnight discomfort to some local residents. As a result, we have fitted a timer switch to ensure that these lights are switched off when we leave site.

Enclosed for Winter...

The Site Team is pleased to report that all of the structural works for the new Alford Community Campus have been completed on schedule.

Our main focus now turns to progressing roofing, glazing and external walls, to ensure that each of the six blocks are enclosed. As each block becomes watertight we will be installing the mechanical / electrical services distribution in conjunction with building the internal partitions.

Superheroes visit site

On 14th November, the site had a surprise visit from a spectacular 'Children in Need' fundraising team.

The identity of the fundraisers and their leader 'Super M' remains a mystery, but the team were spotted heading back to Alford Academy.

Well done to all of the fundraisers who raised an incredible £1255.87.

Work Experience Scheme

We are delighted to welcome Nikki Rae and Jennifer Riach from Alford Academy, who have joined our site team on a Work Experience placement. Nikki and Jennifer will be taking the opportunity to gain an insight into a career in Administration and they will also be learning more about all aspects of the Construction Industry.
