

Ellon Community Council

Ross Purdie

Having lived in Ellon for all of my seventeen years, it has naturally become somewhere I care deeply for; should I be elected and become a member of the Ellon Community Council, I can promise I would bring fresh and personal opinions to discussions concerning the area. I wholeheartedly believe that my poised, confident manner and logical thinking would be of assistance when making decisions.

Regarding the recent debate of travellers settling in Ellon, my beliefs fall firmly on the side of increasing scrutiny of their behaviour to reduce any untidiness and that methods of holding travellers accountable for the cost of clearing any mess should be explored.

“A man who does not think for himself does not think at all.” — Oscar Wilde